Beauty Point

This seaside holiday town on the kanamaluka /River Tamar was originally established as Tasmania's first deep water port to service the mines at Beaconsfield. A working seahorse farm provides guaranteed sightings of seahorse and sea dragons as well as platypuses and echidnas. Stroll along the water's edge with a hot brew from a local cafe or head to the wildlife haven of nearby Narawntapu National Park. Situated on Port Dalrymple (the mouth of Tamar River) a deep water port was constructed to service the Beaconsfield Gold Mine, The town is also the home of the Australian Maritime College.

National Parks – A Natural Wonder

Beaconsfield

The Beaconsfield Mine collapse occurred on April 25th 2006, of the seventeen people in the mine at the time fourteen escaped immediately following the collapse, one was killed and the remaining two were found alive and rescued. Beaconsfield originally known as Brandy Creek was founded in the 1850's. Limestone mining led to the discovery of gold. The Dalley brothers discovered Gold here in 1877. At the peak of the gold rush 700 men were employed and 26 tonne of gold was recovered valued at about 3 million pounds. It became Tasmania's richest settlement when gold fever took hold in 1887. Learn more about the disaster as well as the town's mining history at the Beaconsfield Mine and Heritage Centre. There's also a brewery in town where you can try a local beer.

Binalong Bay / Bay of Fires

The Bay of Fires is situated between Eddystone Point and Binalong Bay. Captain Tobias Furneaux named the area in 1773 after sighting Aboriginal fires on shore. The area is of great cultural significance to the Aboriginal community of Tasmania. Today its values and beauty can be experienced and appreciated by locals and visitors alike. Public toilets are located near the tennis courts and beside the first car park. Campsites have basic toilets.

Bay of Fires Beaches

Easy beach walks with rocky outcrops

There are a number of beaches in the Bay of Fires, mostly accessible from the southern end (Binalong Bay) and by the road from Binalong Bay to the Gardens. From the Gardens, the beaches are only accessible by foot. The length, time and place of walking is your choice. Some beaches allow dogs on lead. Seasonal restrictions apply.

Walking Trail

Humbug Point Reserve = 6-7 hours return, moderate

There is a walk right around Humbug Point Reserve, starting from either Skeleton Bay car park or Moulting Bay (via Grants Point and Dora Point). This walk can be broken up into a number of short walks starting from different points along the track, as detailed below. Dogs are permitted on lead between Skeleton Bay and Dora Point only.

Skeleton Bay to Dora Point 🖮 Start: Skeleton Bay car park.

Skeleton Point - easy 40 minute return. This track follows the side of Skeleton Bay to Skeleton Rock. If the tide is low, take one of the numerous side tracks down to the rocky coastline and explore the tidal pools for marine life. Look up into the old blue gums, sea eagles can sometimes be seen perched up high or flying overhead. When Skeleton Point is reached you are at the southern end of the Bay of Fires and on a clear day Eddystone Point lighthouse (the Northern end of the Bay of Fires) can be seen. Australasian Gannets can sometimes be seen diving for fish and keep an eye out for migrating whales.

Farm Gate Produce – So Fresh

Binalong Bay / Bay of Fires

Walking Trail

Grants Point - medium 70 minutes return.

Continue past the track down to Skeleton Point and follow the main track through Sheoak woodland to Grants Point. Take the time to stop and enjoy the natural beauty of this area. Once you reach Grants Point look out for the huge granite boulder and marvel at how it remains perched in position. Seals are often seen swimming or sunbaking on the rocks offshore.

Dora Point - medium 3 hours return.

Continue past Grants Point and follow the coast around. On this section of track two beaches can be accessed and on a calm day it is worth carrying your mask and snorkel. Great views across to the St Helens bar way and St Helens Point are available from this part of the track. Once Dora Point beach is reached the walk has ended. Look out for the directional sign off the beach to the car park. This beach is an ideal swimming spot if it is too windy at Binalong Bay.

The above walks can be accessed by gravel roads, so it is possible to walk back along the roads to create a loop walk or have a car shuttle system to save back tracking.

Binalong Bay / Bay of Fires

Walking Trail

Moulting Bay to Dora Point Camping Area via Humbug Point

- medium, 2.5 hours Return Start: Moulting Bay Day Use Car Park

This walk commences at the day use car park at Moulting Bay and is a medium 2.5 hour round trip. The track from Moulting Bay to Humbug Point follows onto beaches and deviates slightly inland over some of the rocky points and is best walked at low tide. Bird life is prolific, watch out for cormorants and oyster catchers. During autumn, hundreds of swans make the bay home. The occasional sea eagle can also be seen. Stroll through the eucalypt woodland and copses of grass trees with their tall seed spikes which are remnant reminders of prehistoric vegetation. During spring and summer this area showcases a diverse range of Tasmania's native flowering plants, including orchids. Especially look out for the large and small duck orchids late December. Before reaching the Dora Point campground, you will see a sign posted track to your left. Either take this track to return across the peninsula to Moulting Bay, or continue along the track to Dora Point.

Terminal for the vehicle ferry Spirit of Tasmania and agricultural export town. Situated on the Mersey River back in the 1850's there were twin settlements at the mouth of the Mersey called Formby and Torquay. The Don River Tramway began in 1854 to bring timber out of the Don Valley, the original tramway was replaced by a rail line in 1916. The new line brought limestone from quarries worked by BHP. Closed in 1963 and reopened in 1971 by Van Diemen Light Railway Society. It is now Tasmania's only full size passenger railway. Devonport an hour west of Launceston is a vibrant city bordered by mountains rolling fields and Bass Strait and the first port of call for visitors arriving on the Spirit of Tasmania ferry from Geelong in Victoria. Devonport's maritime roots run deep: the Bass Strait Maritime Centre is the place to delve deeper. Stretch the legs with a walk to candy-striped Mersey Bluff Lighthouse and look for rock carvings at this important palawa (Tasmanian Aboriginal) site. Journey through bushland to the beach aboard the vintage rail cars at Don River Railway or head to Kelcey Tiers for cross country mountain bike trails.

Doo Town

This quirky seaside community emerged in the mid 1930's when Hobart architect named his holiday shack Doo I. The trend took off with the likes of Doo-Me and Doo-Us and today most of the town's dwellings have "Doo" names. House names all have the words "Doo" - Like this Will Doo - Doo Drop In – She Will Doo. explore nearby rock formations in Tasman National Park including the Devil's Kitchen Tasman Arch and the Blowhole.

Dover

This fishing port was once a convict station, the Commandants Office still stands next to the caravan park. The far south town of Dover was established as a convict station in the mid-1840s. Walk along the foreshore for great views of three evocatively named islands Faith Hope and Charity. In town taste locally made spirit distilled with sassafras a tree native to the cool temperate rainforests of Tasmania. Nearby head underground at Hastings Caves State Reserve and bathe in thermal springs.

Dunalley

Small fishing village home of the Denison Canal originally hand dug started in 1901 and completed in 1905, spanned by a Swing Bridge. In January 2013 Dunalley was badly affected by bushfires losing approximately 65 structures. Dunalley is a sleepy fishing village on the drive to Port Arthur and the Turrakana/Tasman Peninsula. Despite being badly affected by the 2012 bushfires the town is once again thriving. Visit the local winery for wine and food with a view on one of Tasmania's most historically rich properties head to the wharf for fresh fish and chips or to the town's hotel for traditional pub fare.

Eaglehawk Neck

In convict days this narrow isthmus at its narrowest point of less than 100 metres wide was guarded by a line of ferocious tethered dogs, soldiers and constables stood guard to stop convicts escaping from Port Arthur. Martin Cash the bushranger swam this bay supposedly shark infested after escaping from Port Arthur. When he was caught he was sentenced to death but was reprieved and given a life sentence. He later became the caretaker at Hobart Botanical Gardens. Teralina/Eaglehawk Neck connects the Turrakana/Tasman Peninsula to the Forestier Peninsula. Today a sculpture marks the location of the barricade. Head beachside to see the perfect patterns of the Tessellated Pavement a section of flat rock carved by the sea.

Originally founded as Collins Hill by Governor Macquarie in 1811. Named in 1829 as Evansdale and renamed Evandale in 1836 after the surveyor and Painter George Evans. John Batman the founder of Melbourne and landscape Painter John Glover lived close by. The National Penny Farthing Championships are held here annually in February. Ned Kelly's father John a prisoner worked in the town. The picturesque northern midlands town of Evandale is one of the best preserved historic settlements in Australia. National Trust classified the Georgian village is home to notable heritage buildings as well as drawcard events like the Glover Prize for Tasmanian art each March. A visit to the Sunday market selling antiques and collectables as well as local produce is a great day out.

George Town

Situated at the mouth of the Tamar River is George Town, this sleepy seaside town is Australia's third oldest European settlement behind Sydney and Hobart settled in 1804. It has a strong history best explored at The Watch House and strong maritime history which can be understood better with guided tours available at the Bass and Flinders Maritime Museum and Low Head Pilot Station Museum. Low Head is situated 6km's away from George Town and has an amazing walking trail named the kanamaluka Trail, showing the stunning views of the Tamar Valley. At the very tip of Low Head, the Bass Strait can be seen from the Low Head Lighthouse, the third lighthouse to be constructed in Australia, and it is also Australia's oldest continuously used pilot station. This light is now unmanned and automated. Just before arriving to the Lighthouse, Fairy Penguins come ashore as the sun goes down and guided tours are available every evening at the Low Head Penguin Tours. George Town is home to amazing MTB Trails with 70km of riding over two trails networks, George Town Mountain Bike Trails complete the North-East Tasmanian Mountain Biking narrative. One of these trails starts at Mount George, at the top of Mount George you can access the lookout with minimal fitness required and see beautiful views of the Tamar and surroundings.

George Town is home to beautiful beaches one including East Beach (Low Head) which is an all-abilities recreation area that includes accessible seating, sensor activated shower, accessible toilets and parking, accessible BBQ tables and BBQ's which ensures that all people of all ages and all abilities are able to enjoy a day out at the beach. George Town also offers amazing family friendly parks like Regent Square: The purpose-built playground includes multiple apparatus such as a flying fox and trampolines, complemented by a skate park, half basketball court, rotunda, BBQ facilities and a wind shelter gathering space surrounded by established trees. Regent Square was also the first park in Tasmania to get an accessible communication board, this communication board is the first of its kind in Tasmania playgrounds, setting a precedent for accessible communication and inclusion. The communication board features Auslan signs and picture visuals, allowing individuals to gesture, point, or scan symbols for effective communication. It's designed for people of all abilities, promoting inclusivity and bridging communication gaps.

Hamilton

A classified historic town in a rural setting, has retained many of its colonial buildings. It was once destined to be the capital of Tasmania despite its distance from a port. The Bushranger Dunn was captured while concealed in a haystack. He shot the husband of a native woman when she refused to leave the body. Dunn then cut the husbands head off and suspended it around the woman's neck and pushed her along under knife point. The rural town of Hamilton will transport you to another time. Perched on the banks of the Clyde River Hamilton looks out towards the Great Western Tiers. In the 19th Century Hamilton was home to a mix of breweries inns and a roaring illegal liquor trade. Today the main street is lined with historic stone buildings from this era including the Old Schoolhouse and St Peter's Church.

Hobart

Hobart is the capital of Tasmania; first settlement began in 1803 as a penal colony at Risdon Cove on the shores of the Derwent River. Charles Darwin visited Hobart in 1836. Hobart Town became a city in 1842 and was a major port for the whaling and sealing industries. An amazing theatrical record was established in Hobart by a lady entrepreneur. Mrs Clarke brought a company from London and staged grand opera's for four consecutive years (1835 - 1839). It's easy to fall in love with Hobart, Tasmania's lively capital hugging the broad River Derwent the city offers a vibrant mix of arts and culture local wines and food and natural adventure, Hobart has a rich and often dark past. European settlement in Hobart began in 1803 but the palawa (Tasmanian Aboriginal) people have been here for millennia. Head to the Tasmanian Museum and Art Gallery (TMAG) for insight into this compelling history. For an alternative universe of ideas and expression visit MONA the provocative Museum of Old and New Art built into the bank of the River Derwent. Kunanyl/Mt Wellington is a wilderness playground on the city's doorstep – take in spectacular views from the summit or get moving for a day of hiking or mountain biking.

Kempton

Registered as a classified historic town. Originally the home of the big river tribe of Aboriginal people. The hotel at Kempton was a popular first night stop for the trip form Hobart to Launceston. A colonial air lingers in Kempton on the land of the Big River people and settled by Europeans in the 1820's. Today its ample collection of historic buildings is like a walk back through time. Highlights include St Mary's Church of England and Dysart House an 1840's coaching inn turned distillery and if you're a fan of whisky you're in luck. Kempton is also home to a second distillery.

Kettering

The area was first explored in 1792 and settled in the early 19th century by timber cutters, whalers and sealers. Oyster Cove is where Truganini the last aboriginal in Tasmania died in 1876. Kettering is the stepping off point for Bruny Island, The seaside town of Kettering is perched on the edge of the D'Entrecasteaux Channel with sweeping views across to Bruny Island. Yacht filled Oyster Cove Marina is the heart of the town The vehicle ferry runs to Bruny Island which takes around 20 minutes. ### Latrobe (i

Historic Township on the banks of the Mersey River, once a busy shipyard town. In 1895 it was lit by the first Hydro-Electric power project. The home of the Launceston Examiner established in 1842. Australia's oldest woollen mill established in 1874 (Waverley Woollen Mills). Platypuses may be elusive, but you've got a good chance of spotting one at Latrobe head to Warrawee Forest Reserve on the Mersy River at dusk or dawn. Just south of Devonport Latrobe was once the main port of the north west. Bells Parade is an ideal picnic spot while the nearby Axeman's Hall of Fame explores the region's forest heritage.

Launceston $(\mathbf{i})$

Tasmania's second largest city, known as the garden city, because of its parks. The first white settlers arrived in 1798 when George Bass and Matthew Flinders were sent to explore the possibility that there was a strait between Australia and Van Diemen's Land (now Tasmania). Launceston mixes city and country charms with heritage streetscapes and a slice of urban wilderness. Tasmania's second largest city is one of only two in Australia to be named as a UNESCO City of Gastronomy and its Saturday farmer's market is one of the best. This boutique city supports a thriving food and drink scene showcasing wines from the nearby Tamar Valley Wine Region and local craft beers.

Launceston's cultural offerings are diverse including Australia's largest regional gallery the Queen Victoria Museum and Art Gallery (QVMAG). On the edge of town Cataract Gorge is the place to unwind and relax. This dramatic gorge is surrounded by forested river reserve and has a range of walks cafes and a swimming pool.

Longford

Settled in 1807 when former settlers of Norfolk Island were given land rights. Settlers used convict free labour to build fine houses and estates, still standing today. Prominent among early settlers Thomas Archer built a number of homesteads having emigrated from England in 1811. Six generations of Archers have lived at Woolmer's Estate from 1817. Former Racecourse Hotel, originally intended to become the Longford railway station, this building has been both a public house and an old peoples home since it was built in 1845. An historic town south west of Launceston, Longford has beautifully preserved historic buildings and an impressive park. Explore the UNESCO World Heritage listed Woolmers and Brickendon estates nearby which were created by farming families in the 1830's as extravagant reminders of their English heritage. Longford's 7.2km Grand Prix track was home scene to a thriving race scene in its 1950s and 1960s heyday and sections of the track can still be driven today.

Mathinna

The town became established as a gold mining centre shortly after gold was discovered in the area in the 1890's. At its peak in the late 1890's the town's population was 5000 including a large number of Chinese miners. The Golden Gate Mine in Mathinna was one of Tasmania's highest-yield gold mines, second only to Beaconsfield. Making it the third largest town in Tasmania. Toilets are located at the recreation ground. Please note roads are unsealed.

Walking Trail

Evercreech Forest Walk = 40 minute return, easy 😿

Experience this easy rainforest walk, either via the 2.3-km loop trail (which involves a river crossing) or return the same way once you have reached the small waterfall. Gas barbecues, picnic benches and eco toilets are available here. Add on a short 20 minute return walk from the car park to see the "white knight", the tallest White Gum in the world.

Walking Trail

Mathinna Falls = 30 minutes return, easy

Mathinna Falls are located about 15-minutes' drive from the town of Mathinna, heading north towards Evercreech Forest Reserve. The first waterfall, the easiest to access, is a short 15 minute walk that guides you directly to the base of the waterfall. It is possible to climb to the second tier of the waterfall via a steep scramble to the right of the lower falls.

New Norfolk

The first white woman to settle in Australia (Betty King nee Elizabeth Thackery) from the First Fleet is buried here. She is also believed to be the last surviving first fleeter male or female, when she died aged 90 years of age in 1856. The first road connecting Hobart was built in 1818 and the railway in 1887. New Norfolk took its name from free settlers deported from Norfolk Island. On a pretty stretch of the River Derwent New Norfolk is Tasmania's third oldest settlement. Sit in a pew in Tasmania's oldest Anglican church or enjoy a cool draught at one of Australia's oldest pubs just a stone's throw from the hop fields. ## Penguin (i)

First settled in 1861 as a timber town and became a port town shipping large quantities of timber to Victoria where the 1850's gold rush was taking place. Nearby colonies of little (fairy) penguins. Fashion Designer Alannah Hill lived in Penguin during her early childhood as her parents owned a milk bar in the town. Penguin overlooks Bass Strait on the winding coastal road between Ulverstone and Burnie. Wander shops and cafes along the busy esplanade and marvel at the endearing collection of penguin statues and signage. Watch the little penguins return from the sea each night at the nearby rookery. Penguin plays host to an undercover market each Sunday with stalls selling food wine handcrafts vintage treasure and art.

Perth

Perth is named after the old capital of Scotland. Perth just south of Launceston remains endearingly unchanged since the Georgian era of the early 19th century. The town was settled in 1821 and has an interesting history with more than 40 buildings dating back to the early 1800's. Pick up a National Trust brochure from the quaint post office and take a self-guided tour through the town stopping at the impressive Methodist and Baptist churches.

Plenty

The first introductions of brown trout outside their native England. When in 1864, 300 of 15,000 brown trout eggs from the river Itchen survived a four month voyage from Falmouth on the sailing ship Norfolk. By 1866 171 young brown trout were surviving in a Plenty river hatchery. Thirty eight young trout were released into the river.

Port Arthur (

This historic site was one of Australia's most infamous penal settlements from the 1830's to the 1870's. about 12,500 convicts served their sentence here. This site is World Heritage listed. It was abandoned as a prison in 1877, In the 1970's the National Parks and Wildlife service began looking after the site hence the start of Port Arthur as a tourist attraction. Walk through the Penitentiary and glimpse into a convict's cell or make a sobering visit to the Separate Prison and the Asylum which housed those deemed mentally ill. The surrounding rocky shores and wild oceans made escape impossible for convicts but today offers endless opportunities for adventure.

Queenstown

Although Queenstown's halcyon days are long past, it remains in every sense a mining town. The mountainous area was first explored in 1862. Gold discovered at Mt. Lyell in the 1880's led to the growth of Queenstown. Mining was continuous from 1893 to 1994, producing 670,000 tonnes of Copper 510,000kg's of Silver and 20,000kg's of Gold. Queenstown is surrounded by a striking "moonscape" a testament to the town's mining legacy. Misty Mount Owen towers above the town which is home to artists and makers as well as some remarkable buildings including the art-deco Paragon Theatre and the grand Empire Hotel. The West Coast Wilderness Railway is a great wilderness experience travelling 35km through rainforest to Strahan. To experience more of the surrounding wilderness head to Nelson Falls and Horsetail Falls.

Rosebery

Rosebery is a mining town; alluvial gold was discovered in 1893 along with zinc-lead sulphide. Like most west coast towns Rosebery was built on mining in this case zinc and gold. Today mining remains the town's core industry. Surrounded by rainforest and dramatic peaks the area draws bushwalkers and mountain bikers. One of Tasmania's tallest waterfalls Montezuma Falls is a three hour return hike reached on foot or by bike along an old mining tram line.

Ross

Ross is a picturesque Georgian village with a wealth of convict associations and a rich pastoral and military history. The scale of Ross makes it an ideal place to explore on foot and intersection of Church and Bridge Streets is a good place to begin. It has been known for many years as The Four Corners of Ross. Each corner has been named to reflect the character of the building located on that corner (recreation, temptation, damnation and salvation). The village also boasts an ornately carved convict built bridge, a sandstone quarry and the site of the Ross Female Factory which gives fascinating insight into life as a female convict. The Tasmanian Wool Centre houses a Visitor Information Centre and Museum, which highlights the Midland's strong connection to Merino wool. Check out the village's latest additions - the Species Hotel and Arboretum for an interesting eco-experience.

St. Helens (

St. Helens is the largest town on the north-east coast of Tasmania, on Georges Bay. It was named after St. Helens in the Isle of Wight, England. It is known as the game fishing capital of Tasmania and is also renowned for its oysters. First used as a whaling base in the early 19th century, when tin was discovered in the surrounding areas in the 1870's, St Helens then became the shipping port for the mines. Public toilets are located at the Visitor Information Centre car park, behind the War Memorial and at the wharf/marina.

Walking Trail

Georges Bay

Multi user bike/walking/sculpture trail 1.5 hour return ,easy 🛛 烯

Start: The Northern end of the Golden Fleece Bridge, near the entrance to St Helens Waterfront. Follow the Georges Bay Foreshore with great views of the bay, continue through the Lions Park, along O'Connors Beach and past the scout hut, return the same way. Look out for the amazing sculptures along the way www.offthetrailsthelens.com). There are several toilets, picnic benches, gas barbecues, jetties and beach areas along the track.

Town link = 2 hours return, moderate

Start: From the Lions Park on the corner of Tasman Highway (A3) and St Helens Point Road (C851), cross over the highway into Boggy Creek Valley and take the shared use track through the forest up to the mountain bike trailhead. Toilets are located at the Lions Park and at the trailhead. Return the same way.

St. Helens Point / Akaroa

St Helens Point Conservation Area is managed by Tasmania Parks and Wildlife Service. The area is good for fishing, boating, walking, sightseeing and surfing. There is also an off-road recreational vehicle area, where registered vehicles can access the beach. Horse riding, sand-boarding and dog walking are also permitted in this area. Always carry fresh water as none is available on the Point. Public toilets are available near the boat ramp.

Walking Trail

Burns Bay (Boat Ramp) to Beerbarrel Beach = 1 hour return easy 😹

Start: Next to Burns Bay boat ramp and follow the track through the She-oaks to Beerbarrel Beach. This walk takes in the eastern rocky coastline of St Helens Point. Either return the same way or follow the gravel road back from the car park entrance. St Helens Point is Tasmania's most easterly point. Burns Bay is a safe beach for children. Beerbarrel Beach is a surf beach. From Beerbarrel Beach car park, wander down to the beach or visit the lookout on the headland for sweeping views of Maurouard Beach below and St Patricks Head in the distance.

Walking Trail

St. Helens Point Navigation Lookout = 10 minutes return, easy 🖮

Take the second road to the right after the Blanche Point road. Travel approx. 300 metres along this gravel road, the St Helens Light car park is on your left. There are great scenic views from the lookout.

Walking Trail

Peron Dunes to Maurou Beach = 1 hour return, moderate 🖮

Dune and Beach walking. Take the turn to the right off St Helens Point Road into Peron Dunes just past Akaroa and start from the car park. Walk across the rolling sand dunes over to the Tasman Sea. This walk can be done in reverse by starting on Maurouard Beach, although seasonal restrictions apply for dog walking.

St. Helens training wall to Blanche Point = 30 minutes return . easy

The turn off from St Helens Point Road is signed to Blanche Point. Walk from the car park along the Training Wall which has information panels and seating. A great flat walk for people with limited mobility and a popular fishing spot. Swimming is not recommended, as the tides in and out of Georges Bay are extremely strong at this narrow part of the Bay. Extend the walk along the beautiful white sand of Blanche Beach.

St. Marys

At the headwaters of the South Esk River system there are some convict built structures. A probation station was built in the 1840's to house 300 convicts at Grassy Bottom between St. Marys and Elephant Pass. The railway arrived in 1886. The first European contact with the district occurred when Captain Tobias Furneaux sighted and named the 694 metre St Patrick's Head in 1773. It wasn't until the 1840s that a probation station, housing 300 convicts, was built at Grassy Bottom between the town and St. Marys Pass. They were assigned to build the road across the mountains to the east coast. This was done between 1843 and 1846. It was renamed Cullenswood in 1849 and St. Marys in 1869. Toilets are located next to the Library on the main street, at the skate park and the recreation ground.

Walking Trail

The Gray Mare's Tail = 10 minutes return, easy 🖮

Start at the parking area at the top of St Marys Pass. The short and easy trail winds through the wet sclerophyll forest, before coming to a lookout platform overlooking the top section of the falls. A tall but typically low-flowing waterfall, Gray Mare's Tail is nonetheless a worthwhile stop, best visited after heavy rain.

Walking Trail

St. Patricks Head = 2-3 hours return, moderate 🖮

St Patricks Head is one of the world's most unique geological features. The trailhead starts at the end of St Patricks Head Road, not far from the centre of St Marys. The path's gradient is a steady, steep, scenic ascent to the summit with some loose rocky sections. The 360° panoramic views at the top are absolutely breathtaking.

Stanley (i

Nestled under the rock called the Nut, Stanley was the site for the headquarters of the Van Diemen Land Company set up in 1825 to establish a quality Merino Wool Industry. Its wharf also handled whaling and sailing ships. It is the birthplace of Australia's only Tasmanian born Prime Minister. Hon. J.A. (Joe) Lyons. Make a point of driving 2 K's north out of Stanley and visit historic "Highfield Historic Homestead" on Greenhills Road. The perfectly preserved colonial buildings of Stanley sit in the shadow of the Nut, a flat-topped 143m high volcanic plug. Climb the steep zig-zagging path or take the chairlift to the summit for spectacular 360 degree views. At dusk watch little penguins clambering up the beach to their burrows at Godfreys Beach then tuck into seafood fresh from the town's fishing fleet. Take a self-guided heritage walk around town and visit stately Highfield Historic Site.

Table Cape

Named by Bass and Flinders in 1798. Aboriginal occupation here dated back for over 8,000 years.

Taranna

Australia's first railway carried passengers and supplies shipped from Hobart to Taranna for the Penal Settlement at Port Arthur 7km away thus avoiding the rough sea journey around Cape Raoul. Taranna is a tiny settlement on the road to Port Arthur on the Turrakana/Tasman Peninsula. It was once the terminus for Australia's first railway possibly the only railway relying on human horsepower with carriages pushed by teams of convicts. Nearby is a wildlife conservation park where endangered Tasmanian devils are the star attraction and you can wander among wallabies possums and kangaroos.

Rosedale Homestead Camping Farm 19 Nubeena Road Taranna www.rosedalehomestead.com.au

Built in the 1930's by the Hydro Electric Commission to house Tasmania's pioneering hydro- electric officers and management. The highland village of Tarraleah was built in the 1930s to house workers on Tasmania's hydroelectric scheme. The cottages have since been turned into holiday accommodation and there's plenty to do trout fishing kayaking half day hikes or high altitude golf. Remnants of the town's past are ever present the vista is dominated by the huge steel water pipes that feed the hydroelectric scheme.

Van Diemen's Land

Named after Antony van Diemen Governor General of the Netherlands East Indies officially took the name of Tasmania (from Abel Tasman) upon the cessation of transporting convicts 1853.

Waratah

Was the site of the first mining boom in Tasmania and Mount Bischoff was the richest tin mine in the world at that time discovered in 1871. The underground mine closed in 1914 but surface mining continued until tin prices slumped in 1929. Waratah sits on the edge of the takayna/Tarkine wilderness and unusually features a breathtaking waterfall in the heart of the town. Waratah's tin mine changed the financial fortunes of Tasmania while tin mining has long since ended here its legacy lives on in the historic buildings including the Waratah Courthouse Museum with its local artefacts stories and photos. Worthy nearby bushwalks include Hellyer Gorge the dramatic Philosopher Falls and Whyte Hills Outlook.

Westbury

First surveyed in 1823 and laid out in 1828 by the Van Diemen's Land Company. A garrison village was developed in the 1830's centred around a village green still in use today for St. Patrick's Day Festival celebrating the towns Celtic links and some fine old buildings. Westbury in Tasmania's central north has all the elements of a charming English village – look for thatched cottages a village green and a town common. The main street boasts well-kept inns bed and breakfasts antique shops galleries and cafes. A stop at Pearn's Steam World for a look at the impressive collection of antique steam engines is a must for history buffs and train lovers.

Zeehan

Named after one of Abel Tasman's ships, this former mining town of silver and lead deposits discovered in 1882 is a National Trust classified historic town. In 1901 Zeehan had 26 hotels and a population of 10,000 making it Tasmania's third largest town. The famed concert pianist Eileen Joyce was born in Zeehan. The Gaiety theatre which seated 1000 people is actually part of the Grand Hotel. It opened in 1898 and in its heyday the best of local and international talent performed there including Enrico Caruso, Dame Nellie Melba and Lola Montez. Silver and Lead deposits discovered here in 1882. The boom between 1893 and 1908 saw $8 million worth of ore mined. Nicknamed "Silver City" Zeehan grew to be Tasmania's third largest town in the late 1800s after tin silver and lead where discovered sparking the west's largest mining boom. Head to the West Coast Heritage Centre with its excellent displays on the area's palawa (Tasmanian Aboriginal) pioneering and mining past an extensive mineral collection old locomotives and mining equipment. Hike Mount Zeehan for magnificent west coast views or explore the Spray Tunnel a 100m long abandoned railway tunnel on the town's outskirts.
